S. F. Planning Fine Park At Salada Beach

John McLaren, superintendent of parks of San Francisco, this week presented plans to the supervisors of San Francisco for, what it is said, will be one of the finest golf courses in the world. The course will be located at Sharp's park at Salada Beach in this county.

The property was given to the city of San Francisco many years ago by Mrs. Honora Sharp for a playground for San Francisco. The sum of $90,000 was also given the city for improving the property.

Supervisors from San Francisco visited the holding this week and were entertained by the Salada Chamber of Commerce.

Cousin To Aid Kirk In Trial For Girl's Death

Relatives Arrive To Help in Killer's Defense

Ira Kirk, confessed killer of Clara Boeke, San Francisco school teacher, will be defended in the Superior court here by his cousin, Robert Dyrel Kirk of La Mesa, Texas. The cousin, an attorney of La Mesa, and three brothers arrived here Wednesday and began plans for the defense. Upon their arrival they conferred with Kirk and with James T. O'Keefe, who was appointed temporary attorney for the defense by Judge Buck.

BROADWAY-HIGHWAY CRASH; NO ONE HURT

A number of persons, including two nuns and several children, escaped injury, when an automobile driven by Mrs. May Belle Kelly of 727 Twenty-third street, San Francisco, crashed into the car of Frank Schottler, 122 Harrison street, Redwood City, at El Camino Real and Broadway Wednesday afternoon.

Schottler was crossing the highway on Broadway, when Mrs. Kelly going north drove against the signal light, according to Officer Clyde Genochio, who investigated the accident. Schottler's machine, a Star coupe, was badly wrecked.

Miss Margaret Heiner entertained at a breakfast at her home on El Camino Real Saturday, her guests included friends from the University of California, who were enroute to the Big Game at Stanford. Miss Lurena Chenary of Long Beach was the week-end guest of Mis Heiner.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. McLaughlin, former well-known resident of this city, were the guests over the week-end of Mr and Mrs. Willis Frost on Turnsworth avenue, they having come north for the Big Game. Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin are both graduates of Stanford. They are now residing in Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. John Christ, former pioneer residents of Redwood City and now residing near Kenwood in Sonoma county, are here visiting their son, George Christ, and family on Oak avenue, they having arrived Wednesday for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Miss Kathrine Belcher, teacher in the Lincoln school, had for her guest at her home in Eureka over the holidays, Miss Marie Pauline O'Connell. Miss Ruth Brown, teacher in the McKinley school spent Thanksgiving Day and the rest of the week with her parents in Arcata.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin S. Grandi and daughter, Miss Gloria Grandi, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Nishkian in San Francisco on Thanksgiving Day.

William Jackson, who has been ailing for several months, left on Monday for Letterman hospital, where he will remain for a month under observation of physicians.

WELL-KNOWN WOODSIDE RESIDENT PASSES

Alonzo A. Hosford, who operated a stage line between Redwood City and Woodside for a number of years and who made his home at Woodside, passed away Wednesday following an illness of several months.

He is survived by a daughter, Cora and two sons, Walter and Jack Hosford. The latter son graduated from Sequoia high school last June and was prominent in athletics, being the center and one of the captains of the 1928 Purple and White football team. A sister residing in Gonzales also survives.

The deceased was a native of Wisconsin. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but the services will probably be held Saturday afternoon from the chapel of Roller and Hapgood in Palo Alto.

Y. M. I. To Play At Burlingame

Local Team To Meet Portola Club Of S. F.

Out of courtesy to the San Mateo and Burlingame players on the Redwood City Y. M. I. football team and in order to afford the fans of the central and northern section of the county an opportunity to see some of their own product in action, the game next Sunday between the "Green Tornadors" and the Portola Club of San Francisco will be played on the Burlingame High School field. The biggest crowd of the season is expected by Manager Gordon Seeley when these two strong teams take the field at 2:30 o'clock. The admission will be 50 cents. Redwood City will send up a big bunch of rooters.

Police Elect Officers For Association

Officers for the coming year were elected by the Peninsula Police Officers Association at a meeting held Tuesday evening at the Central Cafe here. The officers elected by the association were: President, J. Smith, San Mateo; vice-president, E. Dakin, Palo Alto; second vice-president, J. A. Sneider, Redwood City; secretary, Joe Hartnett, Burlingame; treasurer, Jack Theuer, Burlingame.

The association is benevolent in nature, formed to care for widows and orphans of deceased members. At this meeting $1000 was appropriated for the assistance of the family of an officer of Daly City, who passed away recently. The association is supported by the dance given annually at Pacific City. A report showed that more than $3000 will be realized from the dance this year.

WOODSIDE

What with the California-Stanford game last week and the Thanksgiving holidays this week, Woodside has resumed much of its summertime activity. A number of our summer residents came back from their city homes last week and held open house here both before and after the big game. Mortimer Fleischaker, Alfred Swinnerton and Herman Wobber each entertained a large number of friends and there was hardly a home here that did not have its invited guests at that time. A number of the country homes are opened too for this week-end. Robert Schurman and family motored up from Pasadena to eat their Thansgiving turkey in Woodside.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schilling has been increased by one. A baby boy was born to the family on Monday morning.

A. A. Hosford passed away very suddenly on Wednesday morning. Although he had been ailing for some months he had seemd to be improving and it was thought that he was on the road to complete recovery. Mr. Hosford established the bus line between Redwood City and Woodside nearly ten years ago and drove the bus himself continuously from that time till the beginning of his illness last spring. The Ford touring car that he drove during all those years was retired last week. Mr. Hosford estimated that it had travelled about 400,000 mlies. Mr. Hosford was the friend of all in Woodside and will be missed from our community. A son and daughter survive him.

Carl Silva is Woodside's best known cow-boy, but when he undertook to ride the Schurman pony on Tuesday, he took a spill and broke his arm.

A chimney fire at the home of Covington Pringle called out the Woodside fire department on Tuesday evening but the fire was extinguished with but little damage. It did however make the fire department members late to the card party that they had advertised for that same evening. They arrived in time to make a success of the affair which was attended by about seventy-five people.

S. P. Spur Fight To Go To Court

Judge Kerrigan Will Be Called Upon To Decide

United States Judge Frank Kerrigan will soon be called upon to render a decision in the dispute of the Western Pacific and the Southern Pacific over the latter's right to construct the "orphan" spur at San Mateo which has lead to so much dispute. Former United States Circuit Judge William H. Hunt, who acted as special master for the hearing of the application of the Western Pacific for a permanent injunction against the Southern Pacific to prevent any further construction of the track, will pass the matter on to the federal judge with his recommendation.

It is the claim of the Western Pacific that the spur was built across the proposed line of the Western Pacific's peninsula line for the purpose of blocking the construction of that road. The complaining company also charges that the construction of the spur constituted an entrance into new territory, and should have been submitted to the interstate commerce commission for approval before the construction work was begun.

Pending the decision of the dispute betwen the two lines construction work on the spur line is being held up by a temporary restraining order obtained by the Western Pacific.

While the battle continued between the two lines over the peninsula spur another battle in which the same two lines figure is being waged before the interstate commerce commission which is hearing the application of the Western Pacific and the Great Northern for a right to build a conecting line in the northern part of the state. This connection is being opposed by the Southern Pacific.

The Southern Pacific's San Mateo spur is also the center of a fight before the California Railroad Commission between the Southern Pacific and the State Highway Commission. The spur line crosses the proposed route of the extension of the Bayshore Road between San Mateo and Redwood City. The highway commission will not allow any crossings at grade on this new road, and demands that a grade separation be constructed. This matter now awaits the decision of the railroad commission.

The Interstate Commerce Commission recently agreed to re-open the hearing of the application of the Western Pacific for a permit to construct a line along the peninsula from San Francisco to connect with its transcontinental line at Niles. This application recently received an unfavorable action by the commission by reason of the fact that the original application failed to state that the line would connect with the present existing line of the Western Pacific. The commission intimated, however, that if a revised application were presented with this information added that favorable action might be expected.

Sequoia In Fast Game With China Phone Exchange

By RAY DIXON

Although beaten in their first encounter with the Chinese Telephone Exchange by the score of 30 to 26, the Sequoia High 130's basketballers looked good even in their defeat Wednesday.

Playing a different brand of basketball than any that Sequoia team has met for some time, the Exchange team opened up fast offensive attacks and with reserve material equally as good as the starting lineup would alternate this keeping speed throughout the tangle.

McCarthy, freshman Cherokee center, showed well under fire and with the addition of experience he should come through in fine shape and be ready when the P. A. L. opens.

High point honors for the evening went to "Ike" Britschgi and George Shine of Sequoia and Lonce and Wong, Exchange, when they accounted for 6 digits each.

In the first game the Varstiy managed to squeeze out an 11 to 6 win over the 120-pound Indians. Due to the awkwardness of DeLacy, McQuilken and Sepulveda, remade football players and playing the forward berths, the unlimiteds were capable of looping only a few. Up to the third quarter the 120's led the heavies but a third quarter rally put them in front.

The line-up for Thirties game was:

Woman Ends Own Life With Gun

Despondent, it is said, because of ill health, Mrs. Minerva Reece of 67 Central avenue, ended her life by shooting herself through the heart sometime Wednesday morning. When her husband, L. D. Reece, returned from work at noon he found her dead on the bed.

An examination of the body was made by Dr. Harry Mason, who stated that the cause of death was suicide. The body was removed to the parlors of Layng & Tinney.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Reece is survived by two small children, aged three and four years, by her mother, Mrs. Clara Plecq of Berkeley, her father Ernest Freitas of Modesto and two brothers, Walter and Francis Freitas.

An inquest will be held later by County Coroner J. C. McGovern.

Plans For Annual Exchange Club Party Complete

Many Surprises In Store for Kiddies At Theatre Party

The Exchange Club Christmas party, which for the past several years has become an inseperable feature of the Christmas season among the kiddies of Redwood City will again be held this year. The party sponsored by the Redwood City Exchange Club is the club's gift to the children of the community.

As in the past the club is being aided by the management of the Sequoia Theatre. Tom Kane, manager of the theatre, has assured the Exchange Club of the co-operation of the show house in making the affair a success. The theatre is donating the use of the building and the pictures and all employees have promised to give their services for the children. Many novel Christmas gifts will probably be given to the children at the conclusion of the show. John Garland, chairman of the Exchange Club committee, promises something different from former occasions.

High School Notes

By WAWONA WASHBURN

Friday night members of the Sequoia Press Club, accompanied by Miss Eunice Schmidt, adviser, and Miss Ann Burns, school librarian, visited the San Francisco Chronicle. They were shown through the entire plant.

Four members of the University of California deputation committee spoke to the Sequoia students Thursday. The object of the deputation committee is to give high school students a general idea of college. With the committee was Joe Gunterman, a Santa Barbara high school student, and formerly of Redwood city. Joe was the winner in the state essay contest sponsored by the University of California.

Mr. A. C. Argo, principal of Sequoia, will speak December 4 at Orland, Glenn county, to the teachers of that section on the "Club Program." As Sequoia has recently installed an extensive club program, it was decided that Mr. Argo was well fitted to talk about this phase of high school work.

"Clubs are a valuable asset to the high schools," stated Mr. Argo. "They cultivate social acquaintances and also help the students in learning to be proper administrators."

Sixty magazines are subscribed to by the Sequoia Library. Besides being good reading for the students, explained Miss Ann Burns, librarian, magazines are used for references and special reports. It is estimated that $140 is paid every year for subscriptions.

Ellery Walter, author of "The World on One Leg," and Howard Pease, "Shanghai Passage," gave talks to the students last week. Five cents was charged for Mr. Walter's lecture, but Pease spoke in the regular half hour assembly period.

Coach Frank Griffin, head of the boys' physical education department, is planning to leave next Wednesday for the Hawaiian Islands with the University of Santa Clara football team. The Santa Clara squad is to meet the University of Hawaii in an international game. Mr. Griffin will return December 24.

Seventeen first string football men will be lost to Sequoia because of graduation this year. Those who will not return for next year's varsity are: Worrel, Maloney, Lawler, C. Clancy, Chilcott, R. Clancy, Partee, ritschgi, Lintner, Willard, Blume Stilleson, Sepulveda, Blomquist, Terwilliger, Dickinson and Hubbard.

Car Prisoner Gets Release After 22 Days

Man Near Death In Car Locked At Chicago

When Roy Johnson lay down to sleep in an empty box car in Chicago, he had little idea that his next meal would be eaten in California some 22 days later.

Trainmen at Belmont heard a faint groan issuing from an empty car on a siding at Belmont on Monday, and opening the car to investigate, found a man almost dead within the car. The man, almost unconscious from starvation, told a pitiful story of having been locked in the car while asleep, and of his efforts for almost a month to attract attention while the car was shifted from place to place without being opened.

Johnson was removed to the Community hospital, where he was given a few drops of water as his first meal in 22 days. Later small quantities of food were administered to him. Physicians in attendance believe that Johnson will live, but have fears that his experience may impair his mind.

When found the man was little more than a skeleton, weighing about 70 pounds. A long growth of beard and hair indicated that his estimate as to the length of time which he had spent in the car was about correct. Johnson is a World war veteran.

SENIORS WIN INTER-CLASS BALL SERIES AT SEQUOIA

By LOUISE BENDEICH

In the inter-class championship football game Tuesday, the seniors whipped the juniors by a decisive score of 12 to 0. The seniors had the upper hand, and completely outplayed the third year string.

"Stupe" Stilleson, quarterback, accounted for the senior tally. He intercepted a pass and ran 35 yards for a touchdown. Gordon Partee, end, cut in on a pass and went 40 yards for the second score. Attempts to bring in the two extra points on passes failed.

Kirschmer was the outstanding linesmen in the senior eleven. Clancy and Stacy were good in the backfield. The seniors blocked all junior punts.

The games so far have been fast-moving and all together exciting. By breaking down a plucky frosh defense, the heavy senior eleven defeated the freshmen team in interclass football Monday afternoon by a score of 20 to 0. The juniors took a 6 to 0 technical win over the sophs in an extra period after four quarters of scoreless play.

After the regular game and an extra five-minutes without scoring, the two teams took four alternate plays each, starting at the 50-yard line. After the soph attempts to break the line, Al Cleland, junior end, got away on a long pass on the third down and landed the ball in sophomore territory for the victory. By arrangement all varstiy line men were required to play in the backfield, while the backfield players were put in the line to give them somewhat of a handicap.

Charles Clancy, fullback, bucked over the first senior touchdown in the first quarter and also converted the same way for the extra point. The "High'n Mighties" ran for a goal, adding the extra point on a pass. In the last quarter Stacy, half, broke away on an off tackle run and made the final score 20 to 0.

SUIT FILED HERE FOR AUTO CRASH

Suit for $22,236.90 damages was filed in the office of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Kneese this week against Harold Hall and Alphonse Tayrac as the result of an accident which occured in Menlo Park on December 17, 1928. The plaintiff in the action is Leo Kroeger of Menlo Park.

Hall, it is charged, driving a car belonging to Tayrac ran into Kroeger on his bicycle. Kroeger alleges that injuries received in the accident are permanent and result in suffering and loss of time. In his action this week, the plaintiff is being represented by Attorney James Davis of this city and San Francisco. Time for hearing will be set by Judge Buck.

Belmont Again At Work As An Incorporation

Meeting of Council First In Years Held

Belmont is again functioning as an incorporated city after a lapse of two years was held Tuesday evenstatus was undetermined. The first meeting of the town council in two years has held Tuesday evening, at which time the chief point of discussion was the town's finances.

Because of the suit which was filed two years ago to force the disincorporation of the town, and which was finally decided recently in favor of the town, the city has collected no taxes, and has no funds at present with which to carry on its government.

A special tax may be called by the councilmen in order to raise funds to carry on the city government until the regular city taxes can be collected late next year. A license tax is also proposed, and the county may be asked to advance money to assist the town during the intervening time.

All appointive officers were asked to resign, and appointment of these officers will be made later.

Happy Days of Umpire Recalled by Veteran

Ever since "Steamboat" Johnson went into the Southern association as an umpire, fans have wondered why he always takes his money and jewelry on the field with him.

The thing is a mystery no longer. Steamboat is merely practicing safety first. Like the soldier who goes forth to war, he never knows whether he will get back to his home base—in this case his dressing room.

"Once," said Steamboat, "I did not get back. I went straight from the ball park to the jail. Incidentally, I spent the night therein.

"It was in Des Moines and on a Fourth of July, too. The home team was trailing, 1 to 0, and there were two out and a runner on third in the last of the ninth.

"The batsman hit to short and the fielder threw to the plate in time to get the runner. I tried to be pleasant, as is my custom, and said, 'The game is over, boys, let's go home to supper.' This was my way of calling the runner out.

Johnson's face and head are covered by marks left by flying pop bottles.

"The boys don't throw 'em like they used to," he mused. "Umpiring is getting to be a real delight. Sometimes, though, I miss the old days. But don't put that in the paper. The wolves might wake up and start throwing bottles again."

Star Fancy Skater

Hack Wilson's Bat Was Loyal to Him in Pinch

Hack Wilson, the bat breaker with the Chicago Cubs, may never get a job prophesying after his playing days are over, because the prophet business isn't so good nowadays. But if he does, he ought to make a good one.

In the Pacific Coast spring series between the Cubs and Pirates one year, Hack got his prophesyer working—and how!

It was in a game in which Earl Smith, the talkative catcher, was behind the bat for the Buccaneers. The Pirates were ahead, 4 to 0, and he was telling Wilson, who was at bat, just how good the Bucs really were.

Two men were out and there were two on the sacks. The count on Hack was two strikes and two balls. The pitcher prepared to deliver another pitch.

"Earl," said Wilson, rather kindly, "after this pitch the score is going to be 4 to 3."

Kremer shot the ball at him and Hack crashed it into the bleachers.

Came the seventh inning and the Cubs had the tying and winning runs on third and second.

"Earl," said Hack, as gently as he could, "this here ball game is over."

It was, because Wilson hit the next pitch for a double, scoring two runs.

Fights at Miami

There will be two fights promoted by the Madison Square Garden corporation in its new outdoor arena at Miami, Fla. The first will be of minor importance, but the second will be the heavyweight elimination bout featuring Jack Sharkey and an opponent who will not be named until the latter part of December, although it has developed that Tuffy Griffiths is the leading candidate for the opposite corner. Tuffy has been coming fast in his recent fights and will do well.

Sport Notes

Ireland has a prejudice against "foreign" games.

• • •

Kiki Cuyler was the best base stealer in both leagues the past season.

• • •

National horseshoe pitching championships are held at St. Petersburg, Fla., each winter.

• • •

Tommy Loughran plans to begin his comeback campaign in New York shortly after January 1.

• • •

Of the five tie games played in the National league in 1929, the Chicago Cubs participated in four.

• • •

Football players may take comfort in the thought that they are no more of a "menace" than Santa Claus.

• • •

There is probably nothing, though, in a rumor that Wrigley will plow up the ball park and plant it in spearmint.

• • •

The late closing of the majors is making it hard on the players who usually pick up exhibition game money in the fall.

• • •

The new football stadium of Duke university has a scout box at the bend of the horseshoe. There is room for 60 scouts.

• • •

Boxing, known as el boxeo, is becoming the national sport in Mexico. "Boxeadores" now flourish everywhere in the country.

• • •

Writers in the affected areas must remember hereafter that in comparing hailstones to golf balls the new golf ball is larger.

• • •

Hickory has gone up 12 times in price, and it is reported the golfers at St. Andrews, Scotland, are taking up steel-shaft clubs, to improve their game.

• • •

Perhaps one reason for the little woman's languid interest in your careful explanation of the football rules is that she knows you know nothing about them, either.

• • •

Despite his unusual stature, Hans Wagner was a phenomenal base runner. He stole more than 50 bases in five straight seasons, 1904-1908, and in one of them, 1907, annexed 61.

Harry Carl Pass, a Toronto mechanical engineer, after six years' work, has perfected a totalizer machine for race tracks which reveals before a race what each horse will pay if he wins.

Karl Kozeluh of Czechoslovakia holds permanent possession of the Bristol cup, emblematic of the world's supremacy which he won by defeating all the leading tennis professionals in 1927, 1928 and 1929.

Longest Grid Run

Credit for making the longest scoring run recorded so far this season in college football is given to Ted Franz, Ashland, Ky., senior halfback at Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, Ohio. Franz caught a kickoff behind his own goal line and ran 101 yards for a touchdown in Ohio Wesleyan's game with Heidelberg.

Baseball Admired

Baseball is greatly admired by the Japanese. Two Japanese newspaper men covered the recent world series between Chicago and Philadelphia, filing from the press box directly to their home papers. One unusual feature of the performance was that they were able to have the account and box score of Tuesday afternoon's game in Tuesday morning's paper. None of the most seasoned American reporters could do that. The difference in time accounts for this freak.

BRONKO NAGURSKI MISSES CALLING

Coach Spears of Minnesota Lauds Ability of Gopher.

Dr. Clarence Spears of the Minnesota football team rates Bronko Nagurski as the best tackle in the Western conference when he's playing that position and the best full back if he happens to be stationed at that important post.

"But you ought to see him play end," said the Minnesota coach the other day in a fanning bee when he was about ready to admit to his listeners that his all around star probably is the best football player he ever had.

"I've had to move this 200 pounder around to suit our needs last year and this year," the coach started in. "I have known all along that no matter where I put him he will do all I ask him, and more than that. If I kept him where he's at his best he would play end all of the time. He can and has run the hundred in 10.1. Last year and again this year he's running any of my backs any time they challenge him.

"As a pass grabber he's the last word. At running interference or breaking up opposing plays and smearing the runner, well, as an end he does these things just a little bit better than he does as a tackle or a full back."

The All-American is a good newspaper or magazine gag; it also stimulates and encourages some players, but as far as doing what it pretends to do is concerned, it is a joke and always will be. Ninety per cent of the material on which the selection is based is pure hearsay, no one man being able to see more than a dozen or so teams in action, and often this hearsay is all hooey. Occasionally a man will look good because of weak opposition, while a far better man is barely able to keep his head above water in the toughest kind of going.

The All-American is like the distinguished service awards to soldiers. Some fellows who deserve them get them, but thousands who have a better right to them don't get them.

Rutgers university celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of the first intercollegiate football game, at special chapel, Ex-Senator George H. Large of Flemington, N. J., and several other members of the Rutgers football team which defeated Princeton by the score of 6 to 4 in the first intercollegiate contest on November 6, 1869, were guests of honor. Dr. John M. Thomas, president of Rutgers, and Col. John T. Axton, university chaplain, were the principal speakers, and the entire varsity and freshmen football squads will be present.

World's featherweight pugilistic title stock hit a new high on the big board of the New York sock exchange in Madison Square Garden the other day. Matchmaker Tom McArdle bid 37½ per cent of the gate receipts for the services of Battling Battalino in a title bout with Kid Chocolate the latter part of January, but Pete Reilly, the Bat's private broker, asked a flat guarantee of $50,000. There was no sale.

Outfielder Fothergill has been recognized for the last few years as the most formidable pinch batter in the league. He is to Detroit what "Moose" McCormick used to be to the New York Giants.

According to Fothergill his lifetime pinch batting average is better than .400. If this is the case, and Mr. Fothergill is a gentleman who exercises extreme care in keeping his batting records straight, then Fothergill slumped in 1929 when he batted only .360 in the pinches. Still, it was better than anyone else did.

The punting of Capt. Jim Mooney of Georgetown has been an important factor in the team's success this season in keeping the enemy out of Georgetown territory. In early season games Mooney repeatedly outdistanced rival kickers by from 10 to 20 yards. His work this year has surpassed that of last season, when he was considered one of the best kickers in the country.

Florida takes its football seriously. When Florida met Georgia Tech in Atlanta it was accompanied by 1,500 students and 5,500 other fans, including Gov. Doyle E. Carlton and ten state officials. A holiday was declared at the university.

Ben Lom, stellar halfback of the University of California, is probably the most nicknamed player in recent years at the Berkeley institution.

Every now and then in the course of football history a player crops up whose distinctive style of play earns him a name that sticks. In early days at California, for instance, there was "Locomotive" Smith. Another was "Kangaroo Pete" Kaarsberg, so named for his commendable agility in catapulting himself over the opposing line by stepping on a teammate's back, using him as a human spring.

So it is with Ben Lom, who is listed in the students' directory as plain Benjamin Lom of San Francisco. Unlike the above-mentioned gentlemen in the local football hall of fame, Lom has many nicknames.

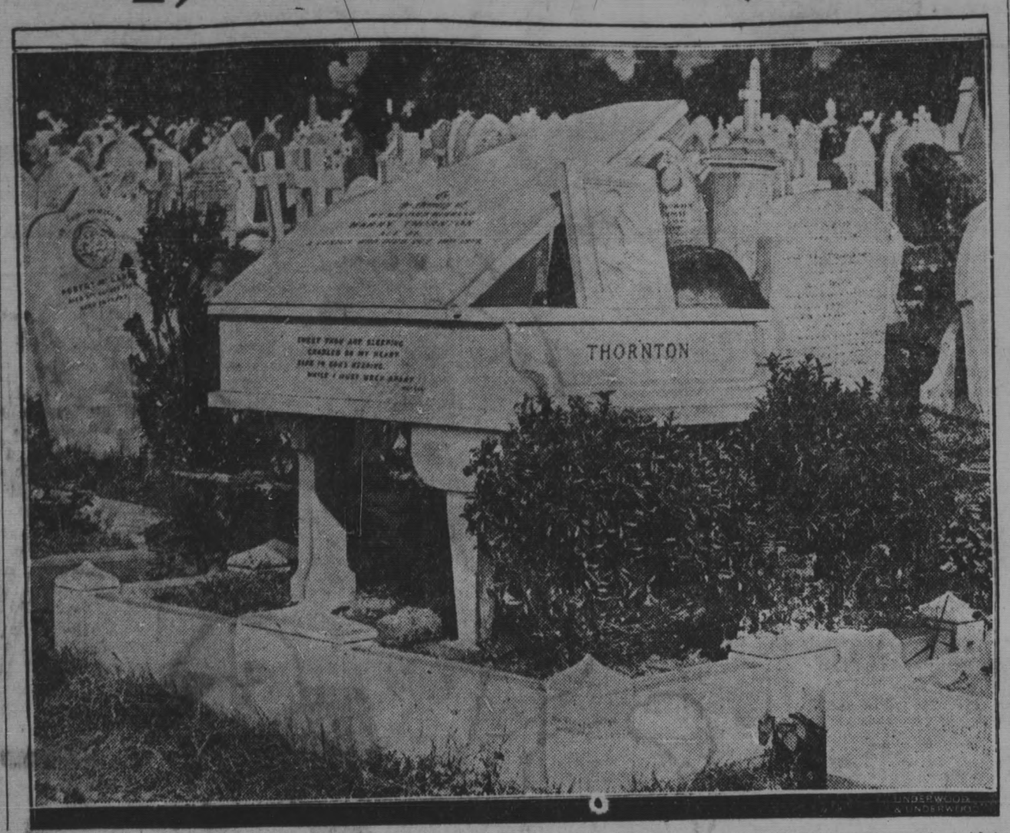
"Here Lies—"



By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

RECENT press dispatches carried the news that Dr. William P. Rothwell of Pawtucket, R. I., has caused to be cut on a huge boulder in Oak Grove cemetery in that city, where he will be buried, this inscription, "This is on me." Known as an ever-generous host, Doctor Rothwell has said "This is on me" so many times while paying the check that he wants it to be his last word. When he dies, he says, he wants no mourning among his friends, and he believes that the familiar words on his tombstone will bring smiles to them instead of sorrow.

The Rhode Island doctor is not the first to write his own epitaph and to do it in a half-jesting mood. Perhaps the most famous of all American epitaphs was written by that first great American, Benjamin Franklin, at the age of twenty-three. It was:

The Body
of
BENJAMIN FRANKLIN
printer
(like the cover of an old book,
And stripped of its lettering and gilding)
Lies here food for worms;
Yet the work itself shall not be lost,
For it will, as he believed, appear once more
In a new
And more beautiful edition
Corrected and amended by the Author.

His wishes were not respected by his family who thought that some other epitaph than this, which reflected his career as a printer, would be more appropriate. In the case of Robert Louis Stevenson, however, it was different, and upon Stevenson's monument in Samoa appear these beautiful lines which he wrote:

Under the wide and starry sky,
Dig the grave and let me lie,
Glad did I live and gladly die,
And I laid me down with a will.

This be the verse you grave for me;
"Here he lies where he longed to be,
Home is the sailor, home from sea,
And the hunter home from the hill."

The self-chosen epitaphs of two other famous men are nearly as well known. Hilaire Belloc, the historian, chose for his:

When I am gone, may only this be said—
His sins were scarlet, but his books were read.

On the tomb of the poet Gay in Westminster abbey appears this couplet which he wrote:

Life is a jest and all things show it.
I thought so once and now I know it.

A walk through an old cemetery will reveal some interesting facts about the things which people wish to have known about them after they are gone. Especially is this true of the epitaphs written during the Colonial days in America and the early days of the republic. Many of them warn the "friend" who is passing of the certainty of death and judgment. In some cases the passer-by is hailed as "passenger" instead of friend, as witness the following from a cemetery in Elizabeth, N. J., dated 1781:

Stop, Passenger, here lie the remains of a woman who exhibited to the world a bright constellation of the female virtues. On that memorable day, never to be forgotten, when a British foe invaded this fair village and fired even the temple of the Deity, this peaceful daughter of Heaven retired to her hallowed apartment imploring Heaven for the pardon of her enemies. In that sacred moment she was by the bloody hand of a British ruffian dispatched like her divine redeemer through a path of blood to her long wished-for native skies.

Perhaps the strangest tombstone in the world, shown in the photograph above, stands in Highgate cemetery in London, England. It is a marble piano erected "To the memory of My Beloved Husband, Harry Thornton, Age 35, A Genius Who Died Oct. 19th, 1918." His epitaph also includes this stanza from a poem by the composer, Puccini:

Sweet thou art sleeping
Cradled on my heart,
Safe in God's keeping,
While I must weep apart.

A good example of the combined "historical" and "admonitory" epitaph is found on the monument of Elihu Yale, founder of Yale colege, which reads:

Under this tomb lyes interr'd Elihu
Yale of Place Gronow, Esq., born 5th
April, 1648, and dyed the 8th of July,
1721, aged 73 years.
Born in America, in Europe bred,
In Africa travelled, and in Asia wed,
Where long he lived and thrived, in London died,
Much good, some ill, he did; so hope all's even,
And that his soul thro' mercy's gone to heaven.
You that survive and read, take care
For this most certain exit, to prepare,
Where, blest in peace, the actions of the just
Smell sweet and blossom in the silent dust.

Many of the Colonial epitaphs were long-winded affairs, but the prize goes to the brass tablet, dated 1778, which appears on the walls of St. Peter's, the oldest church in Bermuda. It reads:

To the Memory
of
George Forbes, M. D.
Whom living
A singular complacency of manners joined with many useful talents and eminent virtues.
Render'd highly estimable
Blessed with a convivial disposition
In the cheerful hour of social festivity
He shone irreprehensible
And an agreeable companion
Ever assiduous in furthering good humor and the enjoyments of sociality friendly to mankind
His endeavors to mitigate the evils of life which he bore himself with temper and philosophy were not alone confined to the healing art.
Long exercised by him with much reputation
But were likewise exerted
In composing differences
Restoring friendships
interrupted
And promoting
Peace, harmony and mutual good understanding
Among his fellow men
Having acquitted himself with approbation
In the several relations of life
As he had lived, respected and beloved,
So he died.
Lamented and regretted for those virtues
And many others which
Tho' not enregistered on this tablet are forever engraven
On the loving memory of his surviving friends.
He died Jan'y 9th, 1178, aged 63 years.

If the epitaph chosen by the Rhode Island doctor seems a bit flippant, he has plenty of precedent for this kind of jesting. John R. Kippax, a Chicago man, has made a collection of unusual epitaphs, some of which would seem to be more appropriate for a joke book than a graveyard. There is the epitaph of eleven-year-old Mary Jane in a cemetery in Cape May, N. J., which reads:

She was not smart, she was not fair,
But hearts with grief for her are swellin'
And empty stands her little chair—
She died of eatin' watermelin.

In the town of Burlington in the same state appears this one:

Here lies the body of Mary Ann Lowder,
She burst while drinking a seidlits powder.
Called from this world to her heavenly rest,
She should have waited till it effervesced.

Mr. Kippax is the authority for this one, although he does not say where it may be found:

Here lies the body of Deacon Speer,
Whose mouth did reach from ear to ear.
Stranger, tread lightly o'er the sod
For if he yapes, you're gone,—by cod.

This one comes from Connecticut:

Here lies cut down like unripe fruit
The wife of Deacon Amos Shute;
She died of drinking too much coffee
Anny Dominy eighteen forty.

A similar one, over the grave of a former slave who lived in Savannah, Ga., tells the passer-by that:

Here lies old Rastus Somminy
Died a-eating hominy
In '59, anno domini.

In an Indiana graveyard there is this brief record of a tragedy:

Here lies I
Killed by a sky
Rocket in my eye.

In an Ohio cemetery is an inscription, often quoted, which reads:

Under this sod
And under these trees
Lieth the body of Solomon Pease.
He's not in this hole
But only his pod;
He shelled out his soul
And went up to his God.

What could be more appropriate than this one, written for a Long Island (N. Y.) carpenter:

No wonder he sawed short life's span
For long he was a (n)ailing man.

Brief and to the point is this from Schenectady, N. Y.:

He got a fish-bone in his throat
And then he sang an angel note.

And here is an old epitaph, date unknown, which in these modern days of motor cars and reckless drivers should be a warning to all of us. Especially is it recommended that "Pedestrians, paste this in your hat!":

Here lies the body of William Gray,
Who died maintaining his right of way.
He was right, dead right,
As he sauntered along,
But he's just as dead,
As if he'd been wrong.

Wipe Out Fowl Pest

The heavy hand of the government fell so emphatically upon the invasion of the United States by an alien foe that within two months of the invasion the foe was exterminated.

The foe in question was one of the most dreaded of foreign diseases from the farmers' point of view—the European fowl pest.

It was discovered when several farmers in Morris county, New Jersey, reported a strange disease which had broken out among their chickens. Prompt investigation of the first reports which were received in June, disclosed that the dreaded pest had reached this country. Within two weeks all infested fowls and numbers of others which had been exposed were destroyed, and after a month without further reports of the disease, the federal officials were convinced that the outbreak had been suppressed while in the stage of outbreaking.

Wisdom

Who is wise? He that learns from every one. Who is powerful? He that governs his passions. Who is rich? He that is content. Who is that? Nobody. —Franklin.

Help!

There should be a law against girls flirting with married men. And girls do it every time they appear barelegged in public . . . There never was a married man so noble he could resist flirting. That is his main weakness, and the law should protect him —Howe's Monthly.

For happiness, after all, isn't a matter of geography or career. You build it in your heart.

Eugenics in Talmud

Some commandments of the ancient Jewish Talmud in line with modern eugenic principles are reported by William Grossman, Hebraic scholar of Passaic, N. J., to the American Eugenics society, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

One says that two very tall or very short persons should not marry, lest their children be abnormally tall or short. For a similar reason marriage was discouraged between blondes or between dark persons. Marriage was forbidden into an epileptic family. Marriage for persons of families manifesting continuous antagonism to each other was advised against.

OUR SEVEN LEAGUE BOOTS

The daily magic in the conquest of space and time has given us new ears, new feet—shortcuts over distance and time. Our present-day systems of transportation and communication have out-stepped the legendary "Seven League Boots."

Our standard of living is largely based on these modern conveniences of transportation and communication. The airplane, railroad, interurban, street car, bus, automobile and truck; the radio, telegraph, telephone, postal service and printing press are among the modern marvels which have speeded up our life, cut down space and distance, and brought the whole world to our door.

The most successful and prosperous people are those who insist on having these modern conveniences available for their use—and who make the fullest use of them for effective living.

Have you ever stopped to think:

That there is now an average of one automobile to every home in the United States.

That at least every other home has a telephone.

That statistics say that radios are in almost as common usage as the telephone.

Every form of convenience in modern communication and transportation is within our reach—is ready and waiting for us to make efficient use of.

And by putting these modern marvels to the proper use of serving us and each other, we are forging ahead as a community and as a living center.

One of the greatest differences between people and communities is the use they make of these modern conveniences of transportation and communication.

Let's put our modern "Seven League Boots" to the best possible use in our competition with other towns and cities for superiority for

Kiwanians Enjoy Musical Program

Two well-known San Francisco artists, Mr. James Isherwood, baritone, and Mrs. Edna Fisher Hall, contralto, entertained the members of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club at their luncheon in the Hotel Sequoia Wednesday. There was no speaker at the meeting, the entire half hour following the luncheon being given over to the artists' program.

Mr. Isherwood's selections included "On the Road to Mandalay," "Gypsy Sweetheart," "Song of the Nile," "Rose of My Heart," "One Alone," from the Desert Song, and "I Hear You Calling Me."

Mrs. Hall sang "Morning," "By the Waters of Minatanka," "That Day We Met," "The Day's At the Dawn", and "The Song of Songs."

Mrs. Irma Harris Vogt of San Francisco, accompanied the singers on the piano.

Charles G. Lambert, chairman of the music committee, arranged for the program, which was greatly appreciated by the members, and he also acted as chairman of the meeting.

There was a large number of invited guests.

SEVEN MILLION FOR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

Nearly seven million dollars will be made available to 175,000 Californians for their Christmas shopping by the Bank of Italy tomorrow.

This sum represents the total savings set aside each week over a period of fifty weeks by members of the bank's Christmas Club for the express purpose of financing their holiday shopping. Checks will be mailed today.

The Bank of Italy has the largest club of this kind in the United States, its Christmas deposits amounting to 5 percent of the combined savings of all clubs in the country.

Distribution of this holiday money is always welcome news to merchants throughout California. It is usually the signal for the start of holiday shopping and since its inception, five years ago, it was found to act as a stimulus to early buying, a leveling out of holiday shopping over a period of weeks and a consequent lessening of the last minute rush.

In order to encoure the use of Christmas Club funds for Christmas purposes, the money accumulated is sent by check to each depositor, rather than require the individual to call at the bank. This removes every possible obstacle to the employment of the entire amount in the seasonal channels of trade. Many stores feature the fact that they accept the Christmas Cub checks as cash, thus insuring the maximum convenience for the shoppers.

Kiwanians Enjoy Musical Program

Two well-known San Francisco artists, Mr. James Isherwood, baritone, and Mrs. Edna Fisher Hall, contralto, entertained the members of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club at their luncheon in the Hotel Sequoia Wednesday. There was no speaker at the meeting, the entire half hour following the luncheon being given over to the artists' program

Mr. Isherwood's selections included "On the Road to Mandalay," "Gypsy Sweetheart," "Song of the Nile," "Rose of My Heart," "One Alone," from the Desert Song, and "I Hear You Calling Me."

Mrs. Hall sang "Morning," "By the Waters of Minatanka," "That Day We Met," "The Day's At the Dawn", and "The Song of Songs."

Mrs. Irma Harris Vogt of San Francisco, accompanied the singers on the piano.

Charles G. Lambert, chairman of the music committee, arranged for the program, which was greatly appreciated by the members, and he also acted as chairman of the meeting.

There was a large number of invited guests.

SEVEN MILLION FOR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

Nearly seven million dollars will be made available to 175,000 Californians for their Christmas shopping by the Bank of Italy tomorrow.

This sum represents the total savings set aside each week over a period of fifty weeks by members of the bank's Christmas Club for the express purpose of financing their holiday shopping. Checks will be mailed today.

The Bank of Italy has the largest club of this kind in the United States, its Christmas deposits amounting to 5 percent of the combined savings of all clubs in the country.

Distribution of this holiday money is always welcome news to merchants throughout California. It is usually the signal for the start of holiday shopping and since its inception, five years ago, it was found to act as a stimulus to early buying, a leveling out of holiday shopping over a period of weeks and a consequent lessening of the last minute rush.

In order to encoure the use of Christmas Club funds for Christmas purposes, the money accumulated is sent by check to each depositor, rather than require the individual to call at the bank. This removes every possible obstacle to the employment of the entire amount in the seasonal channels of trade. Many stores feature the fact that they accept the Christmas Cub checks as cash, thus insuring the maximum convenience for the shoppers.

City Council In Session Tuesday; Man City Strrets To Be Improved

All the members of the council were present at the regular meeting of that body Tuesday evening. City Engineer George Kneese was present and offered the map of the street improvements petitioned for some weeks ago. The streets to be improved are: College avenue, Cambridge, Harvard, University avenue from College avenue to the San Francisquito creek, Roble avenue, formerly Medway, Florence and Alice Lane. The proposed improvement will consist of water bound macadam three inches thick and a concrete wearing surface curb and gutter, lateral sewers and a storm sewer to the creek. The map was accepted and the usual resolution of intention adopted. A meeting of the council was called for December 17 at 8:00 o'clock to hear protests if any there may be. Much discussion was occasioned by the filing of the map which was thoroughly explained by the engineer. It is thought the work on these streets may begin within two months.

A bid was received for street maps as follows, $65 for first thousand and $25 for second thousand. The matter was deferred until after the first of the year. E. R. Anthony, representing the Southern Pacific Company, wrote that the company would fix the crossing at Encinal avenue and Glenwood if they were responsible for such improvement. The communication was ordered filed.

The chief of police was instructed to co-operate with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in caring for overhanging branches in the trees affected by the company in stringing its wires.

Ordinace amending ordinance 8 regulatinig traffic on the highway was presented by City Attorney Whitworth and was given its first reading. The chief of police explained that such a law was necessary in order for him to make arrests and prosecute cases against traffic violators.

Peralto Pigeon Farm Shows Speed in Filling Large Orders

He was immediately removed to the Palo Alto hospital. The accident occured near the Mitchell home on the highway.

Mrs. Phoebe Raymond Passes Away Wednesday

Mrs. Phoebe Raymond, wife of Dr. J. H. Raymond, passed away early Wednesday morning following a brief illness. She had been a resident of Menlo Park for the past three years coming here with her family from Honolulu where she was born and raised and where her people lived for many years. On arriving here the family bought the J. B. Leonard attractive home on Oak Grove avenue, making numerous improvements on the property since its purchase three years ago. Mrs. Raymond was a refined and cultured woman who had a happy faculty of making friends and holding them. Besides her husband, a practicing physician at Honolulu for a long time, she is survived by two children, Harvey Raymond and Violet Gertrude MacKee.

J. J. Murray Property Sold To Art Company

This week the J. J. Murray property on Columbia avenue and running back to the San Francisquito creek in Stanford Park was sold to a wealthy art company that is planning to erect a large school building on the holding. It was said yesterday the company is also seeking the purchase of the seven acres adjoining the Murray property and belonging to the Clunie estate and other adjacent real estate. The Murray holding contains seven arces of land and a fine dwelling. One of the best art schools in the west will be established here. It is said that Stanford University fosters the school and will assist it in every way. Menlo Park is noted for its institutions of learining. The great University of Stanford cast its shadow over it and here are located, St. Patrick's Seminary for the training of young men for the priesthood; Academy of the Sacred Heart, where young ladies are given a splendid training; Menlo Park School for Boys; a private institution in Menlo Oaks; St. Patrick's Parochial School, and the Pacific Military Academy, and the Corpus Christi Monastery. This atmosphere is certain to lure many to Menlo Park, where the climate is the best by government test.

Fred Metcalf Returns From Washington

Fred Metcalf returned from the east on Wednesday. While at Washington he was a dinner guest of Senator S. M. Shortridge. Mr. Metcalf says that the junior senator is a power at Washington, well liked by his associates and very popular with the officials of the district. He is quite close to the president and frequently is called by him in consultation. Shortridge is making a valiant battle for California in the tariff bill before congress. He has succeded in raising the rates on numerous products of the state, and will continue the struggle for his constituents.

Couple Celebrate Sixty-Fourth Wedding Anniversary

The sixty-fourth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John Bracesco was duly celebrated last week, since which time the happy couple have been receiving numerous congratulations. Mr. Bracesco came to San Francisco from his home in Sunny Italy in 1868, going shortly thereafter to Pescadero, to manage the Rankin ranch. Tiring of that place he came to Menlo Park, where he has since lived in the esteem of his neighbors and friends. His first work was at the estate of M. Hecht, now owned by J. B. Coryell. Later he became foreman of the late Faxon D. Atherton's large estate at Atherton, then Fair Oaks. After employment at the Flood and Barney estates he took charge of the Major Rathbone holdings and for forty years managed the estate for the various owners, among whom were the Diamonds, Paynes and Leon Douglass, the inventor. Rathbone married the charming daughter of Faxon Atherton who gave him the site on which he erected a palatial home. Rathbone was a noted Indian fighter, and it is said that he was selected by his commanding officer to go out west to quell the Indians on the Little Big Horn, but he refused the commission. Instead General Custer was sent and he with all his soldiers were surrounded and killed. It is claimed that Rathbone's contemplated marriage with the Menlo belle was a factor in preventing him from accepting the command. The fates were certainly with him.

Eight children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Bracesco, five of whom are living. Mr. Bracesco is now 82 years old, and looks back with pleasure on the many happy days spent here. His marriage has been a happy one, his charming wife always helping and aiding him in his journey through life.

"The Masked Lady" A Mystery Comedy in Three Acts

To be presented by St. Joseph's Players in Nativity Hall, Menlo Park, on Friday, December 6, 1929, at 8:15 p. m., under personal direction of D. E. Sullivan.

The Cast

Plans Started For State Fair At Sacramento

Paine Again Named As Secretary Of Fair

Charles W. Paine, dean of State Fair Secretaries in the United States, has been re-appointed secretary of the State Agricultural Society and general manager of the California State Fair for 1930.

This was announced by A. R. Heron, director of the State Department of Finance, who approved the appointment following Paine's reelection by the directors of the State Horticultural Society. Paine's salary was increased from $4200 to $4,500 a year. His term of appointment was changed to cover the calendar year.

Paine has been officially conected with the California State Fair since 1901, when he was apointed a directortor of the State Agricultural Society by Governor Gage. He has served in the capacity of a director and in his present position under seven governors.

Paine was born in a house adjoining the former State Fair pavilion in Sacramento. As a lad of nine years he broke into the Fair business on a pay basis when he earned twenty-five cents a day by "shooting' perfume on State Fair crowds from an atomizer in demonstration of a brand of perfume.

Today, Paine is known among horsemen, showmen and exhibitors as the dean of State Fair managers in the United States.

Paine is enthusiastic over the prospects for making the 1930 State Fair exceed the record-breaking fair of this year. The Fair will repeat the Western States Exposition and there are prospects of having practically every western state represented with exhibits.

Paine has left for the East where he will attend the International Livestock Show in Chicago, the Kansas City American Royal Livestock Show and the meeting of the International Association of State Fair Secretaries in Chicago. He will also go to Indianapolis, where he will get information in livestock barns in preparation for the State Fair building program here which includes the construction of the first unit of livestock buildings.

Paine will select judges for the various departments of the State Fair for 1930 during this trip and will also do preliminary work on bringing livestock exhibits and horse show entries from the eastern states for the next State Fair, which will have as its theme the 80th anniversary of the admission of California into the Union.

Rev. C. H. Parkers, former pastor of the Baptist church here, returned this week from an extended visit in Loubec, Maine. He is now staying in San Jose.

All sizes to fit all cars

TAKE any of the five or six leading makes of tires on the market today, including the RIVERSIDE—remove the tread design and the name . . . and we doubt if one man in a million could tell which tire is which. The quality is the same. The rubber, the fabric and the other materials are the same. They are put together in the same way . . . hence the RIVERSIDE matches the leading products of the leading makers in every detail but tread design—name—and price.

The biggest difference, therefore, between RIVERSIDE tires and any of the other five or six leading makes is that when you buy a RIVERSIDE you pocket a price saving of $2 to $15 on every tire. In all other respects, RIVERSIDE is identical with the highest quality tires made by any of the leading manufacturers.

Montgomery Ward & Co. can deliver these remarkable tires to you at these $2 to $15 savings simply because we distribute millions of tires every year direct to motorists at the lowest selling cost ever known! . . . You really owe it to yourself to investigate the RIVERSIDE tire the next time you are in the market for a tire.

We Make Good

Fruit Flavors With Pork

Cooked Apples Are Always Pleasant Accompaniment.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Because of their pleasant tartness, cooked apples are an acceptable accompaniment to any of the usual cuts of pork—roasts, chops or sausage. The apples need not always be made into sauce, however. Sometimes serve them baked, or fried, or glazed. Or have an apple dessert. Other slightly acid fruit flavors may take the place of apples for a change—fried pineapple, for instance, or cranberry sauce in the winter months, or tart jellies like currant or beach plum.

Success in preparing pork cuts, says the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, depends on regulating the heat so as to cook the meat well done to the center of the piece and at the same time to keep the outside from becoming hard and dry. Moderate cooking temperature is best after the surface has been seared to develop rich flavor. It is neither necessary nor desirable to add water to pork roasts during cooking. Hams, shoulders and loins have sufficient fat on the outside to baste the lean meat, and so do not dry out when roasted fat side up at moderate temperature in open pans without added water.

For a pork loin roast have the butcher crack the bones so that it can be carved in slices between the ribs. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Lay the loin, ribs down and fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Sear the meat for 30 minutes, or until lightly browned, in a hot oven (480 degrees Fahrenheit) then reduce the temperature rapidly to a very moderate heat (300 degrees to 325 degrees Fahrenheit), and cook until the meat is tender. A loin weighing from 4 to 5 pounds will probably require from 2 to 2½ hours when these oven temperatures are used. A roast meat thermometer can be used with loins, just as with ham and other thick roasts. Put it into the raw meat so that the bulb reaches the thickest part and leave it in during all the time the roast is in the oven. When the mercury in the meat thermometer registers 185 degrees Fahrenheit, the meat is well done to the center.

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

Let the children have plenty of outdoor play in the sunshine now to help them resist colds this winter.

* * *

Weather stripping around the windows helps to save fuel and to keep the house evenly heated in winter.

* * *

To foster a love of reading in children, see that they are provided with comfortable chairs and good light placed conveniently near.

* * *

An uncovered kettle and short cooking in rapidly boiling water aid in keeping the color in green vegetables during cooking.

* * *

Soap and hot water and occasionally kerosene oil are better cleaners for porcelain or enamel than coarse abrasives, since these may scratch the surface.

To Make Brown Bread

Beat two eggs, add one rounded tablespoonful of melted butter, dissolve one teaspoonful of baking soda in one and one-fourth cupfuls of buttermilk and add half a teaspoonful of salt, two cupfuls of graham flour, one cupful of cornmeal and one scant cupful of brown sugar. Beat all well. Bake in a well buttered pan in a slow oven for one hour. Raisins and chopped nuts may be added if liked.

Evening Fairy Tale for the Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

In the music shop the lullaby had put them all to sleep, but they were only going to take a nap so as to rest for the ball that was going to take place.

The instruments and pieces of music had all come to life and were having a fine entertainment for their guest, Minna.

But the lullaby had certainly made them sleepy.

At the very last note everyone of them had fallen off to sleep, though some had gone to sleep a little before the end.

Minna looked around and saw the music sheets resting on tables and counters.

The Big Bass Viol was leaning up against a wall, taking his nap. The Violin was resting upon a chair. Minna put her head down on the Piano and closed her eyes. Either she went to sleep very quickly or else the others didn't sleep any length of time at all, for in what seemed but a few minutes the Metronome shouted:

"Time-to-wake-up."

Once again they all dusted themselves off, and one or two sheets of music smoothed out their corners which had got bent over a little.

Then everyone began to dance. The Sharps and the Flats came out from the pages of the music and jumped here, there, and everywhere over the Piano. The Grace Notes did the loveliest of dancing steps.

The Octaves stretched themselves to their full length.

They certainly looked quite large and Minna kept stretching her hands the way she did when trying to reach octaves on the piano at home.

Of course none of these little creatures were big enough to dance on the floor. They danced on some of the other pianos in the shop and the Grace Notes did the same, flying down over other Notes, reminding Minna of the way butterflies alighted on the honey-suckle bushes in the garden.

Minna Put Her Head Down.

The Chords came out in groups and looked distinguished and handsome.

From time to time the orchestra changed. A new group took the places of those who had been playing, so that all had a chance to dance.

Minna danced a lovely dance with the Violin who hummed softly and sweetly as he danced.

The First Pieces were dancing around with some of the Scales.

Minna particularly liked the look of one C Major Scale who was like his relatives and yet appeared finer and of greater dignity and simplicity than the others. He was dancing with a charming little First Piece. The First Piece, Minna noticed, was written in the C Major key.

Perhaps that was why they had so much in common, or were in such harmony as Miss Drumble, her teacher, would say.

There were other First Pieces, to be sure, but Minna watched this couple more than any of the others. Even as she danced with her different partners, she watched them. They were dancing together all the time.

The tunes to which they danced were many. How gay it all was! Minna was glad that she had on her good blue dress. Her every-day dress had become so shabby that she had dressed up in her better one for her music lesson.

When she had started on her walk she had thought of going home to change into the old one, but then she had decided she hadn't much time, and that she wouldn't really hurt it. How thankful she was now that she had not gone home to put on her old one.

The ball was wonderful. Such lovely music, so bright and so jolly, such delightful, graceful, interesting dancing.

Food for the Family Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Too much idleness, I have observed, fills up a woman's time much more completely and leaves her less her own mistress than any other sort of employment whatever.—Burke.

After middle age when the average person, man or woman, begins to notice the thickening of the waistline, it is necessary, if one keeps fit, active and ready for the enjoyment of all of the good things that nature provides us, to cut down on starchy foods, eat less of meat and more of the natural fruit juices, which are invaluable in neutralizing the acid ash of heavy foods. Acidosis, rheumatism of various forms, get us if we don't watch out.

When heartburn (an acid stomach) rolls up to choke you, take a good glass of fresh orange juice and see how quickly the discomfort will subside.

Drink orange juice daily as much and as often as the stomach demands it. With a system well nourished daily with citrus fruit juice, whether lemon, lime, grapefruit or orange, the dreaded arthritis is routed and the body is kept in perfect condition—provided the food supply is reasonable.

Young people who work off so much steam in exercise may eat more freely of hearty foods, but inactivity and overeating is the cause of a large proportion of disease and death.

Nowadays the wise mother begins with the citrus fruits. She gives her three-month-old babe a teaspoonful of strained orange juice between feedings. The vitamines and mineral matter found in orange juice builds up the tissues and bones and gives the body resistance to colds and infection.

The small glass of orange juice is part of every well-appointed table for the first meal of the day.

Fresh vegetables, especially the green-leaf vegetables, like lettuce, chard, spinach and brocolli, should be part of the menu of every dinner. Uncooked onions if eaten at night are both wholesome and a good antiseptic. They also insure solitude, which is another necessity for a normal person occasionally.

The best diet then is plenty of vegetables, citrus fruits and enough starchy and protein foods to keep in normal weight.

Now that the season is here for heartier foods, more roasts, pastry and richer puddings, we need to remember that we must include in this diet plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, if we are to have a well-balanced diet and keep well.

Pot Roast With Vegetables.—Place a two or three-pound pot roast in a small iron kettle or Dutch oven with some suet. Brown well on all sides, then season and add a tablespoonful of boiling water. Cover tightly and cook over a simmer burner for two or three hours. An hour before serving add potatoes and onions, placing them around the meat. Cover and steam until the vegetables are tender. This makes an easy meal to prepare on a busy day, as one has all the meat and vegetables cooked in one receptacle.

Dinner Punch.—Take two-thirds of lemon juice, one cupful of orange juice, one cupful of sugar sirup—made by cooking together sugar and water to make a heavy sirup. Combine the fruit and sugar sirup and just before serving pour over two bottles of ginger ale, adding plenty of crushed ice.

Proper Height for Kitchen Equipment

Is your permanent kitchen equipment substantial, easy to keep in order, carefully grouped and set at such height that you do not have to stoop or strain your muscles as you work? Sink, stove, and worktable should be near together so as to save steps. Scattered equipment means walking many unnecessary miles during the course of a year, the United States Department of Agriculture has estimated. If the kitchen table is on casters it can be easily moved where needed, thus saving steps.

The various kitchen tasks can be done most comfortably at different heights. Sinks especially are often set too low: 30 inches from the bottom of the sink to the floor is considered good average height. Experiment until you find the best height for your table, ironing board, and washtubs. The table can be raised on blocks hollowed out to fit the legs, and with a little ingenuity you can adjust the ironing board and tubs.

HOT COCOA GOOD COLD DAY DRINK

In cold weather it is good for the younger children to have a hot drink before starting for school in the morning. Cocoa made with milk is both a food and a beverage, and most children enjoy it for breakfast. The United States Department of Agriculture recommends cocoa as a suitable addition to the hot school lunch. When it is not possible for the children to obtain it at school the mother may serve it when the children get home in the afternoon, or as part of the evening meal. Few adults will refuse an appetizing cup of cocoa for lunch or supper, when dropping in to call, or when returning late at night from a cold trip.

Make cocoa with whole or skim milk if possible. Allow two level teaspoonfuls of cocoa and about two level teaspoonfuls of sugar to each half pint of milk. While bringing the milk to the scalding point mix the cocoa and sugar to a paste with a little cold milk or water. Add to the hot milk, bring to the boiling point, and boil for about a minute. To prevent scum from rising, beat briskly with an egg beater. Some persons like the addition of a few drops of vanilla. Whipped cream or a marshmallow may be floated on top of each cup.

Mulligatawny Soup Is Tasty

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The distinctive flavor in mulligatawny soup that makes it different from most other soups is the suggestion of curry, borrowed from East Indian cookery. The vegetables and seasonings are also a source of its fine appetizing taste, and as some of the meat is added at serving time, the soup is substantial and nourishing. The addition of a tart sliced apple is another touch that makes this soup unusual. The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture supplies these directions for making it:

USED FOR STOCK

3 or 4 pounds veal knuckle	1 onion, halved
2 quarts cold water	2 stalks celery
⅛ tsp. peppercorns	Blade of mace

¼ cup sliced onion	¼ cup butter
1 cup carrot, cut in small cubes	1 cup creamed tomato
½ cup finely cut celery	½ tsp. curry powder
1 green pepper, finely cut	2 cloves
1 tart apple, sliced	1 sprig parsley
	2 tsp. salt, or to taste.

Wipe the knuckle of veal, put into a kettle with the water, peppercorns, onion, celery, and mace, and simmer for two hours. Remove the scum and strain the soup stock. Cook the onion, carrots, celery, green pepper, and apple in the butter until lightly browned. Add the meat stock, the seasoning, and the tomato. Simmer for one hour, or until the vegetables are tender. If desired, the vegetables may be strained out, rubbed through a sieve, and returned to the soup mixture. Whatever way the vegetables are desired, add one cup or more of the meat finely chopped to the soup. Serve the soup piping hot with croutons.

TO MAKE CINNAMON ROLLS

Sprinkle a layer of biscuit dough thickly with sugar, cinnamon and bits of butter. Roll as for jelly roll, cut into one-inch pieces, and set them cut side down in a pan prepared as follows: Butter a pan, sprinkle thickly with sugar, bits of butter and some cinnamon. Pour in sirup to cover the lower part of the pan with a layer of sirup. Set the rolls in this and bake as directed. When baked, turn the rolls out on a rack. If you want a roll that is covered with a plentiful supply of sirup, increase the amount of sirup that is poured into the pan. If a glazed surface is desired, additional sirup or honey may be poured over the tops of the rolls before they are to be baked.

Furred Cloth Suit Smart for Winter

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

The thing that intrigues about the furred cloth jacket suits, which are the smart note for nearly winter, is that they dare to be so strikingly original.

In the yesteryears, a suit was merely a suit lacking for the most part that "variety" which "is the spice of life." How different the modern suit! It has become a creature of imagination in the evolving of which genius is apparently taking its fling.

It is just such fascinating types as the one in this picture which is causing the fashionable world to pay homage to the fur-trimmed suit as a "thing of beauty" as well as costume of exceeding chic.

This striking model is made of brown verona cloth, its collar of brown caracul interpreting an entirely new and decidedly flattering silhouette. The bordering on the coat repeats the graceful circular movement of the collar. There is the buckle fastening. It is the latest—much more satisfactory and smarter than the button-and-loop idea. The close-fitting brown felt turban with its one-side flare, crowns this costume with a definite style touch.

The vogue for thin flat furs is proving an inspiration to designers to design, for the reasons that supple peltry, such as beaver, seal, lapin, broadtail, Persian lamb, astrakhan, galyak, caracul and such, yield to manipulation as gracefully as any fabric.

The smartest of the smart on the daytime costume list is the suit of tweed for sports, and broadcloth or velvet for dressier wear, which is collared and cuffed with some one of the furs just mentioned. Competing with the flat fur trims, to no small degree are the showy long-haired varieties, chief among which are badger fox, wolf and lynx.

Not all suits are black, not all suits are brown, although many of them are, but there is also a most delectable color program mapped out for the furred cloth suit, which includes deep wines, rich greens and very new dahlia and eggplant shades.

A fascinating type of suit or ensemble, if you so please to call it, which has made its debut this season, exploits color and novelty in its every detail. We refer to the suits of loose-woven tweed which have an interwoven border which introduces a multiplicity of typical gay autumn and winter shades. The bordering is neatly finished with a selvedge which is featured in a trimming way. Of the same tweed the designer fashions a cunning hat, usually a draped toque which displays the selvedge to advantage. In some instances a pocketbook and a boutonniere of the self-tweed adds the final touch of chic and charm.

Government Studies Starches

The comparative value of potato, wheat, corn, and rice starches for stiffening fabrics has been given intensive study in the textile laboratory of the bureau of home economics and is reported in a technical bulletin just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. A quantitative method and apparatus for measuring the stiffness of sized fabrics, devised by Esther C. Peterson and Tobias Dantzig, is also described and illustrated.

Heretofore only qualitative methods of showing differences in fabric stiffness had been developed, and oftentimes the stiffness was indicated as part of the "feel," "handle," or some such vague term common in mill and laundry practice. The new method originated by a textile chemist and a mathematician in collaboration therefore marks an advance in the scientific study of fabric sizing. It is also predicted that manufacturers of paper, celluloid, and other commodities will find this method of equal value in measuring accurately the stiffness of their commodities.

The study of starches is being continued by the bureau to determine the value of dasheens and other agricultural products as sources of sizing materials for use in the manufacture and in the laundering of the various fabrics. Copies of the publication on Stiffness in Fabrics, Technical Bulletin 108-T, may be obtained free from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Mother of the Savior

The mother of Jesus was almost certainly Jewish and of the house of David; the place and manner of her death is a matter of tradition and not of authentic record. Early church writers place it at Jerusalem or Ephesus, and about A. D. 45 to 48.

Jingo Speeches

Dr. Ralph Sockman of the Madison Avenue Methodist church, New York, was condemning jingoism at a luncheon.

"Jingoism," he said, "breeds anger, and anger is the cause of all wars. The tragedies caused by anger are indeed incredible."

Doctor Sockman shook his head grimly.

"The angry man," he ended, "opens his mouth and shuts his eyes."

WHY WE BEHAVE LIKE HUMAN BEINGS

By GEORGE DORSEY, Ph. D., LL. D.

The Black Death

THE Black Death of 1348-49 devastated a quarter of Europe, killed 25,000,000 people, and drove Boccaccio outside the walls of Florence, where he whiled away the time writing the Decameron. In India, the pest bacillus cost 6,000,000 lives in ten years. Almost all plague bacteria are carried by animals, and are transmitted to man by fleas, lice, mosquitoes, or other parasites.

A flea on a dying rat seeks a fresh victim, carrying the rat's plague germs with it. Any man will do. The flea empties its alimentary canal, then bites; the bite irritates the skin, the man scratches it—thereby opening his first line of defense to the enemy! The germs left behind by the flea can now get into the blood. In the new host they begin to multiply. Another flea may carry this tainted blood to another human victim.

More instructive is the propagation of malaria, or ague. When science found out where the mosquito gets malaria and why the astounding clock like regularity of the paroxysms which wrack the bones with chills and burn the body of the victim with fever, a long stride was made in making this world safe for human beings.

Malaria is caused by three (possibly four) varieties of Plasmodia of the unicellular Sporozoa. Sporozoa reproduce by spores, hence the name. Ordinarily one cell or one bacterium divides and becomes two. In reproduction by spores, one divides into many tiny spores, each spore grows to life size, and again divides into spores. Each kind of Plasmodium has it own time rate of reproduction. The ague paroxysm coincides with the reproductive cycle.

Once any one of the three varieties of malaria germs has entered the blood-stream, it propogates itself by spores and without sex, asexually. The existence of its progeny is dependent simply on the supply of red blood corpuscles. But how does it get into the blood in the first place?

Enter the Anopheles mosquito of which there are several varieties.

The mosquito bites a human victim, discharging saliva and a few thousand thread-like spores. In man's blood they can take care of themselves. They enter an asexual cycle. They soon become incredibly numerous. Assume that the mosquito left only 1,000 spores; by the tenth day they have become 100,000,000; two days later, 1,000,000,000. When 150,000,000 blood corpuscles have been invaded, fever begins.

The germs of trench and typhus fevers are carried by "cooties." Typhus fever alone killed 120,000 Serbians during the war—all inoculated by lice. When control measures were inaugurated the fever disappeared. But true control cannot come to stay until the facts of propagation are known. In 1915 there were 2,500 cases of malaria in an Arkansas town; within three years there were 73; reduction of 97 per cent.

Formerly, yellow fever lived in the tropics and now and then visited our southern ports, with great loss of life. It is almost forgotten now. Controlled by controlling its mosquito carrier.

But many kinds of germs need no lower animal agency to help complete their vicious life cycle; mere human social relations suffice. The very manner of our living is sometimes a factor in the presence of germs—and in our susceptibility to their ravages. As Jordan says, tuberculosis is primarily and chiefly a disease of men living in houses and of cattle kept in stables. A tubercular patient may expectorate up to 3,000,000,000 tubercle bacilli in one day; the dried sputum in a cool, dark corner may contain virulent germs for eight months. A few drops of urine may contain up to 500,000,000 typhoid bacilli.

The typhoid bacillus, for example, before death overtakes its host, passes into the body of another victim, carried by milk, water, food, fingers, filth, flies. If it passes the acid stomach of the new host, it has a clear field ahead until it reaches the lymphnodes of Payer in the small intestine.

Whether it kills and so dies with its host, or is killed by the leukocytes in the blood, it has already multiplied into an army and has already sent some of its forces out to find new victims. The germs of dysentery, cholera, etc., of the alimentary canal have similar cycles. But they must all be carried; they no more "pass" from one victim to another without a carrier than a letter crosses the sea without a carrier.

Many disease-producing germs which make their homes in our nose, throat, or lungs (germs of tuberculosis, diphtheria, pneumonia, scarlet fever, influenza, measles, whooping-cough, pneumonic plague, etc.), may be carried by the air itself, and generally are sneezed or coughed out to be wafted about until they find new hosts.

The conquest of germ diseases has only just begun. But the start of that conquest might have been delayed until the sweet by-and-by without the discovery of the germs themselves under the microscope.

Wins Wife as First Prize!

IF you don't think your whole life can be changed by chance, read this. It is the story of a young man who was pretty well down and out, but he figured he might win a prize if he took some advice.

"As far back as I can remember I had been a weakling," says Mr. Calvin L. Floyd of Orlando, Florida. "A headache, it seemed, was to be my life companion. I was always dizzy in the mornings. Nothing I ate seemed good for me. Then I attended a health lecture in a sanatorium and the physician talked on 'faulty elimination.' That was certainly my trouble. One of the patients asked him about Nujol. He recommended it highly. I decided to try one bottle to see if there was anything in what he said about natural lubrication for the human body.

Many a life changed by a message like this one.

"Long before I had finished the first bottle my 'companion-headache' was gone. No more tired out feeling. I get a real kick out of life now. By the way, I almost forgot to tell you I found a new life companion, too!"

Perfectly simple, wasn't it? Mr. Floyd just learned the normal natural way to get rid of bodily poisons (we all have them) and nature did the rest. Why shouldn't you be well?

Nujol is not a medicine. It contains no drugs. It is effective, so you will be "regular as clock-work." You can buy it at all good drug stores in sealed packages for less than the price of a couple of good cigars.

Begin today. Millions have found that Nujol makes all the difference in the world. Nujol will make you feel fine and you can prove it.

On Saturday evening, November 30th the Peninsula Shrine Club will give an entertainment and dance at Masonic Temple, Burlingame, to which all Shrine members and their families are invited. The committee in charge has arranged for something novel in the way of entertainment and it is expected that there will be a large attendance to enjoy a very pleasant evening. Immediately following the entertainment there will be dancing, music for which will be furnished by Fred Lamb's Orchestra.

Mrs. Mary L. Beebe, a pioneer resident of Halfmoon Bay, was entertained last Sunday at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Oscar Spangler of Burlingame; the occasion being Mrs. Beebe's 83 birthday. Thirty members of Mrs. Beebe's family were present at the birthday dinner, including her children, grand children and their husbands and 14 great-grand children. A lovely dinner was enjoyed followed by cards. Mrs. Beebe was given many nice presents, and those attending enjoyed a day long to be remembered.

The engagement of Miss Madeline Shields of Redwood City to P. J. O'Neil of San Mateo is announced this week. Miss Shields is the daughter of Mrs. J. J. Shields of 225 Grand street and the late County Auditor J. J. Shields. She is a graduate of the Notre Dame Academy and the Sequoia High School and is one of the Peninsula's most popular young girls. Mr. O'Neil is the son of Mrs. O'Neil of San Mateo and is connected with the Broadway Creamery in San Mateo. The date of the wedding has not yet been set.

Mrs. Charles L. Huyck, assisted by her mother, Mrs. F. H. Thorpe, entertained at her home on Brewster avenue, on Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Evelyn Whitfield, the fiancee of Mr Winthrop H. Thorpe. Dutch whist was enjoyed by the guests, winning scores being made by Mrs. Percy Long, Mrs. William Lane and Mrs. August Bordenare. Refreshments were served at a long table beautifully decorated with the autoumn flowers of yellow and bronze. Following refreshments, Miss Whitfield was showered with handkerchiefs.

The guests were: Mrs. I. W. Whitfield of Mission San Jose; Mrs. James Meagher and Mrs. John Cooney of San Francisco; Mrs. William Lane of Burlingame; Mrs. J. L. Ross, Mrs. George Hopkins, Mrs. C L Dimmitt, Mrs Sarah T.
